Notes: Other minor parties and independent MPs are not listed in the tables below and correspond to parties 98 and/or 99 in the data sets (e.g., party 189999 refers to independent MPs and other minor parties in Bulgaria).

A party is defined as running in the relevant parliamentary election under a distinct label and/or forming an independent parliamentary party group (PPG) consisting of three or more MPs after the election (disregarding national rules of recognizing and privileging PPGs). Smaller parties with (with one or two MPs) are coded under their own label(s) if they are directly involved in cabinet formation, are included in the government, or otherwise important for government formation and/or governance.
